Programme	BS Political Science	Course Code		Credit Hours	3
Course Title Political System (Developed) UK & USA

Course Introduction

st This course offers an in-depth examination of the political systems of two of the most influential democracies in the developed world: the United Kingdom and the United States. Students will explore the historical evolution, institutional frameworks, and political practices that define these systems. The course compares the parliamentary system of the UK with the presidential system of the US, analyzing the distinct features, strengths, and challenges of each. Through a study of political institutions, electoral systems, and governance models, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of how these two democracies function and interact on the global scene.

Learning Outcomes

On the completion of the course, students will be able to, develop a deep understanding of the differences and similarities between the UK parliamentary system and the US presidential system, including their historical development, institutional structures, and political practices.

critically analyze the strengths and challenges of both political systems, evaluating how these systems address governance issues, policy-making, and democratic representation.

apply comparative political analysis to real-world examples, demonstrating the ability to assess the impact of political structures and electoral systems on contemporary political outcomes in the UK and US.
