

Academic & Professional Networks

Links with Professional Bodies

The Institute and/or its faculty have a membership of several international and national professional bodies which keeps IAS and its faculty abreast with the latest trends in education, research and training in the field of Public Administration and Management. Some of these professional bodies are:

- American Association of Public Administration (ASPA)
- British Academy of Management (BAM)
- COBRA Network of European Group of Public Administration (EGPA)
- International Public Management Network (IPMN)
- Human Resource Development Network (HRDN)
- Governance Institutes Network International (GINI)
- Association of Management Development Institutions in South Asia (AMDISA)
- Society for Human Resource Management (SHRM)
- Association of Commonwealth Universities (ACU)
- International Research society for Public Management (IRSPM)

Links with Foreign Universities

One of the strengths of IAS is its global and international orientation due to the fact that majority of its senior faculty member have studied and taught abroad at renowned institutions of higher education in USA, United Kingdom, and Europe. Presently, there are seven young faculty members studying abroad towards their PhD\degrees in the field of public management. The following are the foreign universities where our faculty has been or is being trained currently:

- University of Southern California (USC), USA
- University of Stirling, UK
- University of Texas at Austin, USA
- Heriot-Watt University, Edinburgh, UK
- Institute of Social Studies (ISS) The Hague, Netherlands
- King's College London, UK
- University of Birmingham, UK
- University of Nottingham, UK
- University of Edinburgh, UK
- Utrecht University, Netherlands
- Monash University